Super Wal-Mart now slated for spot near Waveland site

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Staff Writer

Property to accommodate a new Wal-Mart Supercenter in Waveland has been assembled.

Corporate officials confirmed Wednesday they are planning to build a huge center — almost three times the existing store's size — on property adjacent to that store.

"We are looking at opening a Supercenter at a location adjacent to our current store," said Wal-Mart spokeswoman Daphney Davis. She said details are still in a "very preliminary" stage, aside from land acquisition.

While details of the planned development are sketchy, previous owners of two tracks involved confirmed Tuesday that they have sold their lands for the new facility.

The sales create a track of over 50 acres with frontage on Highways 603 and 90, with an L-shaped configuration that runs behind the existing Wal-Mart and Sav-A-Center stores.

Bill Lady, owner of the Holiday Inn at the intersection of the two busy thoroughfares, said Tuesday he sold some 52 acres for the Wal-Mart development, including land he had once proposed for a new hotel.

Aside from the Lady property, Robert Kane of MaMac, Inc., said his firm sold another 4.5 acres for the new Wal-Mart Supercenter site, giving the tract the Highway 90 frontage it will use as the main entrance.

New DUI laws to be tough on Hancock

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department, like others across the state, expects some problems, but will enforce stricter and mandatory regulations dealing with repeat drunk drivers.

The tougher laws were enacted in the last legislative session, and enforcement is expected to impact jails and strain the budgets of local police departments and Sheriff's offices, according to officials.

Two more indicted in kickback scheme

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

Two more people have been indicted and arrested in a continuing federal investigation into theft and contract-fixing at Stennis Space Center.

This week, a grand jury indicted Michael L. McKenzie and DeWayne Ervin, both of whom live near Hattiesburg, on charges of conspiring to steal government property from the NASA installation.

McKenzie, who previously

Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre shaves Waveland Alderman Louie Smolensky's head Tuesday evening at the Galley Lounge at the Waveland Holiday Inn. This is the second year in a row Smolensky — known in the community for a wild mane of silver hair — has had his head shaved in order to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Tuesday's event raised around $3,300.

Kingston found guilty of murder

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

After only a little more than three hours of deliberation Wednesday, jurors returned a unanimous guilty verdict against Bay St. Louis antiques dealer Patricia Ann Kingston for the August 1998 shooting death of Cowan, her husband.

A stone-faced Kingston left Circuit Judge John Whitfield's Hancock County courtroom in shackles at around 8:25 yesterday evening after the guilty verdict was read, although one of her daughters immediately began weeping and shouted after her "I love you, Mama." The verdict capped a whirlwind two-day trial, during which a polished Assistant District Attorney mounted a strong case against Kingston, including forensic evidence and testimony from New Orleans forensic pathologist Dr. Paul McGarry; officers of the Bay St. Louis Police Department and St. Tammany Parish Sheriff's Department; and Kingston's erstwhile son-in-law, Robert Gray Gainey.

"Pat Kingston killed Herman Cowan ...," Gainey told a packed courtroom during his testimony Wednesday. "I didn't want any part of it. I didn't want -- I didn't want to do it."

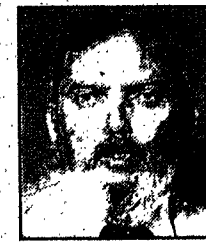

Gainey was sentenced to two concurrent three-year prison terms last week after pleading guilty July 24 to being an accessory after the fact in two murders -- that of Cowan; and the murder of Ansley-resident

Southern Gardening

Clerodendrums produce exotic flowers, fragrances

By Norman Winter MSU Horticulturist Central Mississippi Research & Extension Center

Fragrance that entices you to stay, swallowtail butterflies by the dozens and flowers of rare, exotic beauty are all traits of a group of plants blooming across our area known as clerodendrums, or clerodendrons.

The most common in our area is the Clerodendrum bungei, or Cashmere Bouquet. You see them in many gardens with huge bouquets of rose-pink flowers that have a delightfully sweet fragrance.

Butterflies find these flowers a treat. I have also seen the flower clusters used to give special touches in floral arrangements.

The foliage also has a striking bronze-purple cast mixed with the dark green. Some consider the foliage as having a bad odor when touched, but I don't think it's that bad.

The Cashmere Bouquet is native to Mexico and South America and is hardy throughout Zone 7. It will return from the ground in the spring. Since it blooms on current season's growth, pruning stems that do come through the winter will enhance the bloom.

Depending on your outlook, there is a warning to go along with the Cashmere Bouquet and many of the other clerodendrums. They are aggressive about spreading, so you will soon have a forest of clerodendrums if you do not remove volunteers.

One of the prettiest plantings I have seen had the Cashmere Bouquet growing with elephant ears. Mynelle Gardens in Jackson has wonderful plantings of this one in addition to the Clerodendrum trichotomum, or Glory Bower.

Whereas the Cashmere Bouquet develops into a shrub-like habit, the Glory Bower develops into a small tree. The fragrance of its white and rosy-red flowers permeates the air in the area it is growing, and I relish the time it is in bloom. Sometimes I have seen more swallowtails than I could count. Hummingbirds also love to feast on the sweet nectar.

This clerodendrum is special in that after the bloom you have a steel blue fruit in the middle of the red calyx that remains attractive for a long period of time. This native of Japan is hardy in Zone 7 as well.

Hancock School District non-resident students

As the Hancock County School District prepares for the 2000-2001 school year, student records at each school site are being reviewed to ensure accuracy regarding residential addresses. In the past few months, the district has received several reports about students attending school illegally in the district.

The Board of Education Policy regarding out-of-district students states,

"Any non-resident (out-of-district) student attending Hancock County School District whom the Board of Education heretofore has legally accepted shall have continued privileges to attend Hancock County School District unless otherwise determined by the Board of Education."

"Said non-resident students shall be required to obtain annually a release from his/her resident district. Tuition for non-resident students shall be $300 for each school year paid in full before the first student day of each year."

Beginning immediately, the Board of Education will strictly enforce this policy.

If you have questions about the non-resident policy or if your child is not properly registered in the district, contact Ms. Klein at 255-0376 before Aug. 21.

Camp Stanislaus announces character cup winners

Four campers were presented the Brother Noel Character Cup Awards at the conclusion of the 2000 Camp Stanislaus program, according to Ted Schmidt, Camp Director and 1979 graduate of St. Stanislaus College.

The recipients were Shrimp camper Harrison Hodges, son of Mrs. Susie Warley of Magnolia, Texas; Stingray camper Chris Tighe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Tighe of Marietta, Georgia; Dolphin camper Bobby Davidge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Davidge III of Baton Rouge, Louisiana; and Shark camper Brent Bergeron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Bergeron of Garfield, Arkansas.

The Brother Noel Character Cup is the highest award given at Camp Stanislaus and is awarded to an outstanding camper in each of the four groups: the Shrimps, the Stingrays, the Dolphins, and the Sharks. Each camper is commended for their superior attitude in athletics, academics, and moral development while exemplifying such traits of character as maturity, sincerity, dependability, stability, cooperation, courage, and respect.

Camp Stanislaus, operated in conjunction with the Brothers of the Sacred Heart on the campus of St. Stanislaus College, skillfully combines recreational activities with academic pursuits during its six-week operation. Throughout the summer the campers have the opportunity to enjoy activities including sailing, water skiing, rifles, fishing, canoeing, the mudslide and computer instruction.

St. Stanislaus College is a Catholic residency and day school for young men in grades 6-12. The school fosters character formation and integrates faith development within a curriculum which is primarily college preparatory.

Character cup winners

Harrison Hodges, Chris Tighe, Bobby Davidge and Brent Bergeron are this summer's recipients of St. Stanislaus' Character cup for their group; the Shrimps, the Stingrays, the Dolphins and the Sharks.

MVSU offering 'diversity' scholarships

Mississippi Valley State University will offer diversity scholarships that are directed toward attracting students of diverse backgrounds.

The interest in diversity stems from U.S. District Judge Neal Biggers Jr.'s ruling that historically black colleges in Mississippi must use 65 percent of endowment trust fund income to provide scholarships to attract white students to the Itta Bena campus.

While 65 percent of scholarships must go to whites, other non-African American students can be considered.

Biggers issued the guidelines for the endowment trust fund scholarships at historically black universities as part of Mississippi's college desegregation case.

The 25-year-old college desegregation case originated in 1975 when the late Jake Ayers Sr. of Glen Allan sued the state, accusing Mississippi of neglecting its black universities for decades.

Plaintiffs successfully demanded that more money be put into the historically black institutions to end discrimination in education programs.

Students are eligible to apply for the scholarships if they fall within one of the following three categories: other race (non-black), out-of-state traditional (non-Mississippi resident, no break in high school to college matriculation), and non-traditional (separated at least two years from high school or college environment).

These scholarships are grants funded from the interest earned on an Ayers Endowment Fund Account. The Legislature put $15 million into the endowment fund.

"We have to get MVSU's name in the public. Some people want a unique and diverse experience, and I think Valley has a lot to offer," Sarah Hein, admission counselor and a minority recruiter said.

Scholarships are available in the following departments: education, mathematics, computer and information sciences, and natural sciences and environmental health. An additional three scholarships are available to any of the other nine academic departments.

For first-time freshmen, a scholarship will be awarded based on:

An American College Test score of 20 (22 for out-of-state applicants) or Scholastic Aptitude Test of 930 (1010 for out-of-state applicants), and a high school grade point average of 3.00 or above.

Each awards includes tuition and required fees, room and board. A book allowance of $150 will be awarded to students who have scored an ACT minimum score of 21 or SAT score of 970 (1050 for out-of-state applicants).

The book allowance will be awarded in increments of $75 at the beginning of the fall and spring semesters. A 3.50 cumulative grade point average is required to continue to receive the book allowance.

The scholarship is contingent upon the student maintaining a 3.00 cumulative grade point average and completing a minimum of 15 hours each semester. For first-time entering junior and senior college transfer students:

A scholarship award is based on a minimum college cumulative grade point average of 3.0.

Each award will cover tuition and required fees, room and board. The award depends upon the student completing 15 hours at the end of each semester and maintaining a cumulative grade point average of 3.00.

A book allowance of $150 will be awarded to full-time students who have earned a 3.50 college cumulative grade point average. The book allowance will be awarded in increments of $75 at the beginning of the fall and spring semesters. A 3.50 cumulative grade point average is required to continue to receive the book allowance.

Although Hein is new at MVSU, she already has planned her strategy on how she will promote MVSU.

"Valley has a great education to offer. It has a lot of different degrees to choose from and it's small enough that students can get to know the professors and get to know a lot of the students on campus," Hein said.

She explained that the goal is to diversify and increase minority student population, as well as to increase overall student body population.

"We don't want to leave anyone out," Hein said.

Pearl River's Workforce Development Center served more than 7,000 last year

Pearl River Community College's Workforce Development Center in Hattiesburg served more than 7,000 citizens within its six-county district last year.

"In its years of service to the six-county community, the Workforce Development Center has performed a critical economic function in assisting businesses and industries to train their workers," said Ed Felsher, director of the PRCC Workforce Center.

"The center has made a difference to a whole lot of working folks." The center delivers workforce training assistance in Forrest, Hancock, Jefferson Davis, Lamar, Marion and Pearl River counties.

While the center exists primarily to serve working people employed in the business and industry community, workforce training assistance is also offered to individuals who are not currently employed and to public service organizations.

The center's operations are overseen by a District Workforce Council, chaired by Bobby Chain, a Hattiesburg businessman and former mayor of the city.

From July 1, 1999 to June 30, 2000, the Workforce Development Center participated in training partnerships with 45 organizations, primarily businesses and industries that pay taxes and exist to make a profit.

Those training partnerships provided basic skills, technical and job specific training to more than 7,000 working men and women.

The state Board for Community and Junior Colleges supported workforce training in the PRCC district with more than $1.7 million of state training funds.

Forrest County alone accounted for 24 training partnerships with the Workforce Development Center and benefited from more than $1 million of state training funds.

During six years of serving the working community, the PRCC center has touched the lives of nearly 20,000 people.

This has been accomplished by providing training to working folks in job skills ranging from basic workplace reading and mathematics to advanced computer applications and operation of state-of-the-art metal shaping machinery.

"Training by the center is customized to meet the needs expressed by customers," said Felsher. "The services and resources of the Workforce Development Center are available to any business or industry organization located in the six counties served by PRCC."

According to Felsher, workforce training is part of the formula that leads to economic improvements in a community. Here's how the process works.

Workers are provided with training. The training produces better workers, more skilled and more productive. Better workers make better products, which lead to greater demand for the products. Greater demand leads to the creation of more jobs to make the products.

Finally, increasing the number of jobs in a community causes economic development, especially if the jobs created are higher skill, higher paying jobs. As the number of jobs in a community increases, so too does the community's tax base.

This means better schools, better pay for teachers, better roads and an overall better quality of life for everyone," said Felsher. "It all starts with training people to work effectively and efficiently."

Felsher adds that not all employers agree that training their workers is a good thing. "Training is too often viewed as an expense," rather than an investment in people," he said.

"The fact that studies have shown the likelihood of a significant financial return to an organization that invests in training its workers.

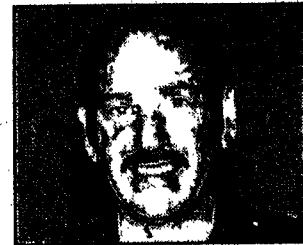

"Then there's the timeless

"CUEVAS" QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Today marks the 31st anniversary of a 'nightmare' I, along with thousands of others, will never forget - Hurricane Camille. To say the day and night were a 'nightmare' is probably mild for some folks, especially for those who literally had to swim for their lives in Hancock County and all along the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

There were really many miracles. Considering the amount of damage to the area, relatively few died from the hurricane along the Coast. Really, more people died in Virginia than along the Mississippi Coast because of the flooding caused by the excessive rains as the hurricane's aftermath crossed that state.

One of the things many of us learned in 1969 was the fact that you need to be prepared in case of the threat of a storm. If you are new to the area, you want to check with neighbors who were here to get a possible feeling of what could happen in your area.

Surface water covered the vast majority of Hancock County South of Interstate 10.

There are still some of us around who remember the 1947 hurricane. In those days the storms had no names. Damages from the 1947 storm were very serious as many others in the history of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. We always need to be prepared during hurricane season.

I wonder how many others have noticed the number of children and even adults who ride in the back of pickup trucks.

A popular spot to see this is at the local supermarkets, where the groceries are piled in along with a number of children or adults. I just say a prayer that the vehicle is not involved in an accident, because the passengers, along with the groceries, will probably all be flying from the back of the trucks.

I know of one auto that was involved in an accident with groceries packed in the trunk. Milk bottles, soft drinks in cans and plastic all exploded along with scrambled eggs, and every other food item. One wonders what would happen if a pickup had a collision with people sitting in the back without any restraints mingled with groceries. A common occurrence is carrying four-legged friends in the back of pickups. Some are chained or tied down with ropes, but I feel that won't save a pet in a serious crash.

Law enforcement officers are all pushing for restraints for small children in the back seat of vehicles. I feel they need to take a look at children and even adults in the back of open pickup trucks.

Once an accident occurs it is too late to make changes.

Jelly fish appear to be having a 'field day,' as an old saying goes, in the Gulf of Mexico and its tributaries. Environmental specialists are worried that the giant Australian jelly fish, which are over twice the size than grown down under, may have a severe impact on our seafood industry. I have noticed several Portuguese Man of War along the seawall, and they appear to be about twice the size I recall when I was a frequent fisherman. I can remember as a youngster swimming at Nicholson Avenue and the stinging from the Man of War, especially when they drifted from my trunks to the bottom of my feet.

Hopefully we will have a very cold winter, not like the one we had last year, and send the invaders back to where they came from.

One person did mention that possibly the invasion of the Australian jelly fish could be of help if they eat up the pollution.

One thing is for sure, the monster jelly fish are causing serious problems already for shrimpers. They are overloading their trawls.

Do not forget the Goodwill Store at the Bay Mall Shopping Center, Highway 90 and Dunbar Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

The Goodwill Store still has a wide selection of back-to-school clothing. Most important, the prices are fantastic. Some items have been used, but who would know!

I noticed a fishing area for many folks has been closed, and that is the U.S. Highway 90 bridge across the Bay of St. Louis. The signs have been placed because of the construction of a safety barrier.

Shows, a special brand of Democrat

These days in many parts of Mississippi, it's hazardous to one's political health running for Congress if you openly identify yourself as a Democrat.

Not so with Ronnie Shows. He doesn't mind that people know he is a Democrat. But a special brand of Democrat.

Shows, a first-term representative representing Mississippi's 4th Congressional District, makes sure folks know, as he did at a gathering here last week, that he's one of the "Blue Dog" (as opposed to "Yellow Dog") Democrats in the House who don't always vote the way party leaders wish.

There are 30 "Blue Dog" House Democrats who have their own agenda on certain core social and fiscal values that are often to the right of Democratic orthodoxy.

Blue dogs in reality are old-fashioned conservative Democrats, something the Republicans want voters to think is an oxymoron in today's politics.

GOPers, especially in the South, contend that the word "Democrat" is synonymous with "liberal."

Certainly Shows' views and voting record his first two years in Congress reflect the largely conservative Southwest Mississippi area he represents, even worrying some less conservative constituents as being too right-wingish.

One anguished 1998 supporter of Shows phoned him the other day to find out whether "you're going to turn into another Mike Parker," (his predecessor who bolted to the Republican Party after being elected four times as a Democrat).

"Have no fear, there's no way I'm going to become a Republican," Shows said he told the constituent.

Passionately pro-life and family values advocate, a foe of gun control, Shows is able to easily deflect any attacks from religious fundamentalists or hard-core conservatives who ordinarily have a distaste for Democrats.

However, his greatest strength, as he proved in knocking off Delbert Hoseman, his highly-financed Republican foe to win the 4th District seat in 1998, is his tireless, down-home campaign style, honed over 20 years of winning local and state public office.

Better than any figure to emerge on the state political scene in recent years, Shows, himself a country boy, has shown an amazing talent to reach the "fork of the creek" voter who usually decides Mississippi elections.

That's why he'll be tough for Pike County DA Dunn Lampton, the Republican nominee, to beat in the mostly-rural 4th District this November, notwithstanding Lampton's creditable record as a prosecutor, with ample GOP bankrolling. Shows has endeared himself to senior citizens in the 4th District for aggressively supporting key issues close to the hearts of the elderly - protection of the Social Security trust fund, Medicare prescription drug coverage and accessibility to health care, especially in rural areas.

It's obvious he resonated well on these issues when he spoke to a 60-plus group of 35 folks assembled here the other night in this western Hinds County town to hear him. Shows has thoroughly plumbed the entire district to reach any gathering of seniors, all the way to visiting those in elderly care facilities.

When he speaks, he proudly declares that he voted against the prescription drugs bill pushed through by the House Republican majority. He contends it would enrich insurance companies rather than lower drug costs to "all" Medicare recipients. Shows and his fellow Blue Dogs are pushing for a bill to give seniors the same discount on their medicines as large HMOs and the government get because of volume purchases. A top priority of his - and the Blue Dogs - is to take the Social Security program "off budget," removing the Social Security trust fund from being tossed in as a general fund revenue, a trick institutionalized in the Reagan years to make the deficit appear smaller.

To utilize the projected $1.9 trillion federal budget surplus, Shows and the House "Dogs" are pushing what they call the "50-25-25" plan. It would apply 50 percent of the surplus to help reduce the $6 trillion national debt, 25 percent on "targeted" tax cuts and the rest for education and health care.

As he stressed in his talk here, he opposes using most of the surplus for an across-the-board income tax cut, as pushed by the Republican majority, rather than paying down the national debt. The GOP tax cut bill, he charged, heavily favors higher income people. "All of us could benefit from lower interest rates if we can eliminate the huge national debt," he declared.

A relatively new issue that Shows has gotten out front on is his "Keep Our Promise to America's Military Retirees" Act, a bipartisan bill (he co-authored with GOP Rep. Charlie Norwood of Georgia) to extend medical care benefits to military retirees beyond age 65 and let retirees who do not live near military bases get quality care in non-military hospitals.

His bill has 303 cosponsors in the House and 33 in the Senate, but it has failed to move. Why? It's being blocked by Senate Majority Leader, Trent Lott of Mississippi.

As he has done since his days as a high school coach down in Bassfield, Shows, 53, keeps in top physical condition, up early in the morning running several miles before he begins a fast-paced day as a public servant.

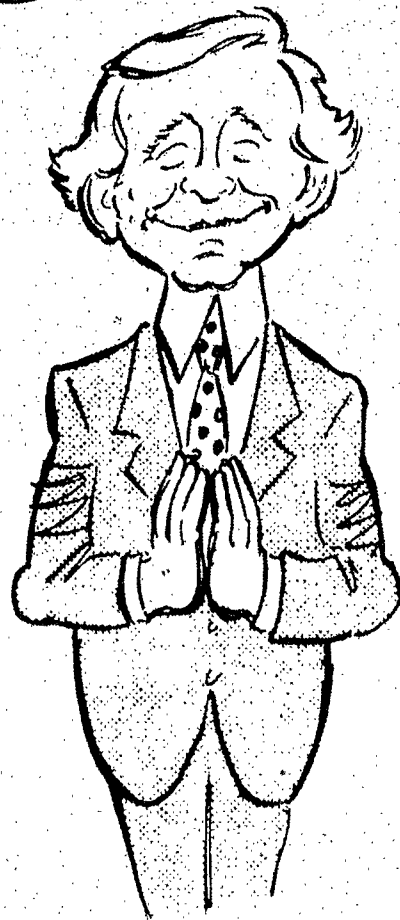

Because Shows is still so trim and fit, Charles Pittman, a hefty and balding former state Senate colleague who introduced him here, chuckled, "I hate him for that."

Letters to the Editor

Quayle, Bush both served in their states' National Guard

To the Editor:

You ran a letter Sunday, August 13 from Mr. C. Thomas Powers praising Bill Clinton and defending his evasion of the draft (we won't go, as Mr. Powers didn't, into Clinton's moral character and honesty) by giving a list of prominent Republicans who did not serve in the military.

Also, he mistakenly listed Dan Quayle and George W. Bush as not having served in the military. They were both volunteers in their respective state's National Guards, with Bush being a trained jet pilot.

In case the writer isn't familiar with the National Guard, its members are subject to being called with practically no advance notice in any emergency, especially a combat one.

There is no appeal to a draft board as in Clinton's case. You just say "Yes Sir!" and grab your helmet and other gear and report.

In World War II and the Korean (Democratic Police Actions) War a very large percentage of troops from the National Guard were deployed before the draft could mobilize the men necessary for war. Most of them ended up overseas.

Our letters policy

The Sea Coast Echo welcomes comments from its readers. Letters must be signed and include address or telephone number. Letters should be brief, preferably typewritten and double-spaced. Only one letter per writer per month. The editor reserves the right to edit or reject letters. Letters of thanks, expressions of appreciation and political endorsements are inappropriate.

Hancock County contributed a substantial number of troops, with the 1355th Quartermaster Battalion, who served in the Mideast during the Gulf War.

Presently, Hancock County supports a company of the 155th Mechanized Infantry Battalion, Mississippi Army National Guard, the "Mississippi Rifles." This unit will be deployed to Bosnia next year for peace keeping duty (not exactly a trip to Disney World).

Anyone questioning National Guard service, and availability for being put in harm's way, should speak to a Guardsman.

Mississippi Home Corp. announces local recipient of Housing Tax Credits

Mississippi will gain a total of 853 affordable rental units in under served rural areas of the state from the allocation of more than $3.8 million in Housing Tax Credits. This allocation includes 70 housing units and $538,931 in tax credit authority from the "My House, My Home" single family lease demonstration program.

The Housing Tax Credit program is a federal program administered by the Mississippi Home Corporation (MHC).

The credit is designed to provide a reduction in tax liability to build or rehabilitate affordable rental housing. The credits are sold to investors to raise additional equity to combine with other sources of funding such as conventional and federal financing, and HOME funds.

To date, MHC has allocated a more than $46 million in housing tax credit authority resulting in the construction and acquisition/rehabilitation of 575 properties totaling 20,544 units throughout the state.

Four tax-exempt bond applications were received and funded during the award cycle which exhausted approximately $1 million from the national pool's credit authority.

This will lead to additional construction in the cities of Gulfport, Southaven, Tupelo, and Walls, Miss., totaling 344 affordable housing units.

The Housing Tax Credit program is highly competitive and applicants are scored and ranked based on the scoring criteria listed in the 2000/2001 Qualified Allocation Plan. Applicants are also underwritten for financial feasibility, and they must demonstrate a need for housing.

Locally, Bay Park Apartments on Longfellow Drive, a new construction of a 64-unit development located in Bay St. Louis, received an award of Housing Tax Credits for 2000/2001.

Attend Writer's Camp

Gifted and talented junior and senior high school students from around the region are graduates of the 2000 Summer Scholars Writing Camp at Mississippi State University. Among them are (seated) Margaret Montgomery of Pass Christian and (standing) Brooke Campbell and Ryan Adams, both of Brookhaven. This year, the 45 students wrote, produced and performed in a three-act musical comedy titled "Nauticalamity." Summer Scholars is a joint effort of the MSU counselor education program and Division of Continuing Education.

Diane Cantrell

Cantrell elected

Diane Cantrell of Gautier was elected state Chapeau (president) of the La Boutique des Huit Chapeaux et Quarante Femmes (better known as the Eight and Forty), at the 53rd annual state convention, which was hosted by the local Salon.

The convention was held August 6 at the local American Legion Post 160 in Pascagoula.

The business session was conducted by state Chapeau Gladys Bassett of Pascagoula. State chairmen and officers gave year-end reports of activities.

Along with Cantrell, other newly elected officers were installed by Past State Chapeau Keet Peetz. They were 1st vice president Phyllis Moran of Bay St. Louis; 2nd vice president Brenda Newell, Gautier; historian Marsha Krebs, Pascagoula; chaplain Billie Burke of Jackson; Sgt. at Arms Jane Snouffer, Bay St. Louis; and Mrs. Bassett as Executive Committee member.

The Eight and Forty is a subsidiary honor society within the American Legion Auxiliary. The membership is made up of those auxiliary members who have demonstrated dedication to the programs of the auxiliary.

The organization is concerned with the prevention and control of respiratory diseases in children, especially cystic fibrosis.

4-H Competes at Ole Miss

Recently Wade Ladner, 4-H program assistant; Pat Ladner, adult leader; and County Agent Mike Keene took eight Hancock County 4-H members to participate at Mississippi State University in Tractor Operation, Compact Tractor, Public Speaking, and Performing Arts. Mike Roche placed first, and Charlie Ladner placed second in the Tractor Operation. Roche won a trip to Indiana in September to compete in the National Contest. Mindy Ladner placed second in the Performing Arts contest, singing a song named Country Angel. There were 35 4-H'ers signed up for this contest. Timothy Herron placed fourth, while Brent McCardie placed sixth in the Compact Tractor. Amy Frierson and Kevin Allemand participated in Public Speaking. Those who would like to know more about 4-H, call Wade Ladner at the Hancock County Extension Service at 467-5456.

New booklet available to help individuals obtain money from the government

Have you ever wished that you could get your hands on some of the billions of dollars that the government gives away? If so, information in a new booklet might help. Free Enterprise Institute in Washington, DC has just published a 48-page booklet, "Free Money - Winning the Government Giveaway Game".

The booklet gives information on how and where to get free money, free advice, and free services from the government.

"At last! count there was around 292 billion in government giveaway programs and free services. The secret is knowing where to look," says Paul Richard, a researcher at the Institute. "We've published a booklet that helps people get their share of the government giveaway. It features listings of sources and stories about real people that have obtained government money for such things as, to write a book, to start a business or to pay off student loans."

Consumers can receive a copy by sending $5 to cover the cost of printing, postage and handling to Free Enterprise Institute, Government Giveaway Booklet Offer, Dept. GGB-801-M, P.O. Box 96071, Washington, DC 20090-6071. ## Historical Society puts Mississippi history online

The Mississippi Historical Society announced the launch of Mississippi History Now, an online publication that puts Mississippi history at the fingertips of anyone with access to a computer and an interest in the state's history. Check out the site at <http://mshistory.k12.ms.us>.

The society launched the site to coincide with the beginning of the school year and the 183rd anniversary of Mississippi's first constitution that was adopted Aug. 15, 1817, at a constitutional convention held in Washington, Miss.

The 1817 Constitution is online in its entirety. "We launched the site on the first day of school because students of Mississippi history are our target readers," said Dr. John Ray Skates, editor-in-chief and professor emeritus of history, University of Southern Mississippi.

"The Mississippi Historical Society wants students to use the site as supplemental reading for their history studies and to help satisfy their search for reliable information on the Internet. The site will also help our history teachers. Each article links to a lesson plan on the subject," he said.

"Mississippi History Now is a remarkable project," said Superintendent of Education Dr. Richard Thompson. "It ties our curriculum to technology and makes even more urgent the task force's goal to put an Internet-accessible computer in every public school classroom by late 2002."

Gov. Ronnie Musgrove and Thompson announced in March the Governor's Task Force for Classroom Technology.

Musgrove said, "This project today introduces a new approach in our educational system - a demonstration project that could lead the way for other academic fields to offer similar Internet services. Not only will Mississippi History Now make learning exciting for our students, but it is a sound partnership between the private and public sectors."

Mississippi History Now features four subjects for today's launch: "Flags Over Mississippi" and "A Brief History of the Confederate Flag" by Dr. David G. Sansing, professor emeritus of history, University of Mississippi; "The Natchez Indians" by Jim Barnett, director, division of historic properties, Mississippi Department of Archives and History; "Free Blacks in Antebellum Mississippi," by Dr. Derron Davis, associate professor of history, Jackson State University; and Mississippi Constitutions by editor-in-chief Skates.

According to Peggy Jeanes, editor of Mississippi History Now, the online publication uses the state's two adopted social studies textbooks as the guideline in developing the production schedule for articles.

Hereafter, she said, a new article and documentary material will appear each month.

"The site will archive all material," Jeanes said. "Thus, over time, Mississippi History Now will be an invaluable source of information for people interested in Mississippi history."

Coast Chamber to kick off membership drive

The Coast Chamber of Commerce, along with the area Chambers, kick off their annual membership drive Tuesday, Aug. 22.

Nearly 100 Chamber members will volunteer through Friday, Aug. 25 to call businesses on the Coast encouraging them to become a member of the Chamber.

The volunteers will man phone banks over a three-hour shift working as teams at the Coast Coliseum Green Room.

While all Chamber members are working towards the same goal, team and individual competition come in to play with prizes being awarded to the top sellers.

"The membership drive is a fun event that involves some work. You have to get on the phone and beat the bushes to get people to join," said membership drive chair Adele Lyons.

This year, businesses have two options - joining at the Coast Chamber level or at an area Chamber level that concentrates on one city.

"With changes made to the structure, administration and finances of the Chamber, it is still a joint effort of the Coast Chamber along with Biloxi, Gulfport, Long Beach, Pass Christian and Orange Grove.

"The area Chambers have more flexibility and autonomy, yet we are still together as the voice of business on the Coast," said Lyons.

Dave Dennis, president of the Coast Chamber, said, "Membership investments begin at just $200 annually for a business with one to four employees. This is a great deal for all Coast businesses."

Each year, the Chamber boasts a great number of events and activities including the Salute to the Military, involvement in Leadership Gulf Coast, Senior Expo, Salute to Business and Industry and the annual Legislative Reception in Jackson. "The Legislative Reception has become the premier event in Jackson. The Coast's voice is heard by the lawmakers during this event. The Chamber drives this lobbying effort," said Dennis.

To join the Coast Chamber or any area Chamber, contact Adele Lyons at 228-392-9747 or the Coast Chamber office at 228-863-2933.

Forest Service to sell the Gulfport Research Lab

The USDA Forest Service, National Forests in Mississippi is offering for sale the agency's Gulfport Research Laboratory property.

The property will be sold to the highest bidder under a sealed bid. The minimum accepted bid is $500,000.

Bids will be accepted for the entire property, only. Bid opening is set for August 29, 2000, at 2 p.m. at the A.H. McCoy Federal Building, Room 317, Jackson. The lab property is a 10-acre site with 15 buildings located within the City of Gulfport. The area is zoned for light industrial use.

It was formerly used by the Southern Research Station, Harrison Experimental Forest, as a research center. The facilities were closed approximately three years ago and have not been occupied since that time.

Improvements will be needed on the property which is considered to be in fair to good shape. The property is offered for sale

"As Is".

A complete prospectus and bid packet are available to all interested persons. Interested persons may contact Andrea Touart at the Harrison Experimental Forest, Saucier, at (228) 832-2747 or Cliff Sommers, National Forests in Mississippi, Jackson, at (601) 965-4391 ext. 174.

Congress authorized the Forest Service to sell the Gulfport Research Laboratory and other facilities and land under the Mississippi National Forest Improvement Act of 1999.

Under the same act, the agency will, at a later date, offer for sale other facilities and land, located throughout the State, which were named in the Act.

Sale proceeds will be deposited in a Sisk Act fund and will be available upon appropriation to finance acquisition of additional land and/or construction on the Forest.

USM Community Arts School sets fall courses

Whether you're looking to dance the night away or play a favorite musical instrument, the University of Southern Mississippi's Community Arts School may have just the thing for you this fall.

Sponsored by USM's Continuing Education department and the College of the Arts, the Community Arts School offers a wide variety of non-credit classes. The scheduled classes for the fall include:

Traditional Irish Ceili Dance class will be offered 6-7:30 p.m., Fridays between Aug. 25 and Oct. 13. A ceili is a gathering of friends to enjoy music, dance, and fun.

The class will include the basic footwork and elements of traditional ceili dancing. No dance experience or partner is necessary. Participants will have an opportunity to join in an authentic ceili dance in an authentic ceili hosted by the Celtic Heritage Society.

Creative Movement for Children is a class using dance as a learning structure to teach creative problem-solving, to develop motor skills and to understand the concepts of space, time, shape and energy. This will be offered for ages 6-9 from 9-10:30 a.m., Saturdays between Sept. 9 and Oct. 14.

Advanced TACS will be offered for ages 10-17 from 10:45 a.m.-12:15 p.m., Saturdays between Sept. 9 and Oct. 14.

Advanced TACS uses primarily ballet techniques as a learning structure to develop creativity in a structured and disciplined environment and to apply and learning and understanding of dance space, time, shape and motion.

Beginning or Advanced Ballroom Dance for ages 18 and older will include instruction in the waltz, cha-cha, rumba, tango and fox-trot.

Participants must register with a partner. The beginner class will be offered on Fridays between Aug. 25 and Oct. 20, and the advanced class will meet on Saturdays between Aug. 26 and Oct. 21.

Acting Exercises and Games will have students participate in games designed to teach them basic acting and ensemble skills.

Activities will focus on concentration, improvisation and building character. This class will be for grades 6-9 at 10-11 a.m. on Saturdays between Sept. 9 and Nov. 11.

Regional Dialect Modification is a class designed to help adults learn to identify and minimize dialect regionalisms through vocal exercises, expanding their ability to use their vocal instruments effectively. This class is ideal for professionals who wish to broaden their presentation skills. This will be offered from 6-7 p.m. on Tuesdays between Sept. 12 and Nov. 7.

USM Repertory Orchestra will provide orchestral experience to players with interest in orchestral playing. This is open to any high school student who plays violin, viola, cello, bass, flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, horn, trumpet, trombone or percussion. This will be offered from 7-9 p.m. on Tuesdays between Sept. 5 and Dec. 5.

Private music lessons are available in guitar, saxophone, flute, trumpet, French horn, clarinet, percussion, piano and voice.

Undergraduate and graduate music students who have been carefully selected and recommended by their teachers serve as instructors.

For further information about private lessons, contact Kaye Chambless, Community Arts School at 266-4985.

Community Arts Youth Chorus for children ages 8-14 is a performance-based choral music, education curriculum offered in a positive and nurturing environment that fosters self-esteem and personal growth. This helps children develop singing skills and learn musical concepts. This class will be held from 4-5:30 p.m. on Mondays between Sept. 18 and Dec. 2.

Suzuki Strings for Young Children is a class for children as young as 4 years old, who can learn to play a string instrument through the Suzuki or "mother tongue" method. Each student will participate in both weekly private lessons and monthly group lessons.

Music Play classes engage young children and their caregivers in creative, informal, and playful music and movement activities.

This provides children with a rich and diverse music foundation upon which their future classroom or private instrumental music experiences can be based. The class will be offered on Tuesdays and Saturdays from September through November.

Notereading for String Instruments and Fiddling for Beginners are also available.

Private art lessons offer instruction in a variety of mediums, including drawing, life drawing, painting, basic printmaking, and a mixture of different media. Contact Kaye Chambless at (601) 266-4985 for more information about private lessons.

Art classes presents students with the basic principles and methods of creating art in a variety of media through projects designed to be age-appropriate. The class will also introduce the students to basic art history and theories in fun and challenging ways. This class will meet from 3:30-5 p.m. on Mondays and Tuesdays from September through November. Call to set up your time.

For more information about the Community Arts School classes, contact USM's Department of Continuing Education and Distance Learning at (601) 266-4186 or visit the website at <www.cice.usm.edu/ce>.

Hurricane season: Be prepared!

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

On this day, the 31st anniversary of Hurricane Camille, local authorities remind us of the devastating storm that killed 256 people along the Mississippi and Louisiana coasts and caused almost $4 billion in damages. And they urge us to remember and learn to be prepared for future storms that may strike our area.

In August we are in one of the peak months of hurricane season, along with September. Out of the worst storms of the century 2/3 or more have been in one of those two months. For those who doubt the power of a storm the Federal Emergency Management Agency handbook begins their safety tips with a little reminder.

It was pleasant, a breezy Indian Summer evening. As the hurricane approached the beautiful bay, long-time residents sat on their patios sipping tall drinks. The last had hurricane was a dim 31 year old memory. Hurricanes hardly ever hit this coast and when they did it never amounted to more than a splash.

of water blown up to the property line of porch steps. Why should they evacuate in response to warnings, they were having too much fun. But by morning the bridges were out and they were stuck, record winds shredded homes splinter by splinter as they hid under mattresses and waited in terror for the 20 ft. storm surge to plow inland.

Not a nice picture, but there is no reason for this to happen to anyone. Thanks to modern detection and tracking devices, the National Weather Service can usually provide 12 to 24 hours of advance warning. A watch is issued when the storm becomes a threat to coastal areas. People in these areas should listen for further advisories. A warning is issued when winds of 74 miles an hour or higher or a combination of dangerously high water and very rough seas are expected in a specific area within 24 hours.

When a warning is issued take precautionary measures immediately. These include:

Checking battery powered equipment which may be your only source of information or light if power is interrupted. Buy extra batteries.

Keep your car fueled up. Stations may be out of service even after the storm.

Store drinking water, obtain extra prescription medications and medical supplies.

Board up windows or use storm shutters.

Secure outdoor objects that may become debris or deadly missiles in high winds.

Moor your boat securely or move it to a secure area early.

Mobile homes require special preparation. Anchor the home with over-the-top or frame ties, do what you can to secure the home and then leave and take refuge elsewhere. Before you leave pack breakables in boxes and put them on the floor. Remove mirrors and tape them. Wrap mirrors and lamps in blankets and put them in the bathtub or shower. Install shutters or plywood over all windows.

Disconnect electricity, sewer and water lines and shut off propane tanks and leave them safely anchored outside. Store awnings and other loose outdoor objects.

If ordered to evacuate, do so immediately using a pre-planned route. If there is time to do so, turn off water, gas and electricity. Identify a family meeting place in case you are separated and be clear about the location. Ask an out of state friend or relative to be an emergency family contact and make sure everyone has the number.

Do not return to an evacuated area until local officials have issued an all-clear.

NOTICE OF A FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

The USDA, Rural Utilities Service has received an application for financial assistance from Standard Dedeaux Water Association, Inc. The proposed project consists of the development of a water distribution system consisting of two (2) 400 GPM water wells, two (2) 100,000 gallon elevated storage tanks and approximately 93 miles of 4 inch through 8 inch PVC water mains to serve an anticipated 835 households. The proposed project will include the conversion of 1.5 acres of land for the necessary wells and tanks.

As required by the National Environmental Policy Act, the Rural Utilities Service has assessed the potential environmental affects of the proposed project and has determined that the proposal will not have a significant effect on the human environment and for which an Environmental Impact Statement will not be prepared. The basis of this determination is based upon the findings of an Environmental Assessment which was specifically prepared for the proposed project.

Copies of the Environmental Assessment can be reviewed at U.S. Department of Agriculture, 132 Mayfair Rd., Suite C, Hattiesburg MS. For further information contact Robert W. Windham, Rural Development Specialist, at 601-261-3293.

Waveland aldermen consider area-wide 'Project Impact'

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
staff writer

Lynette Carbon, director of the Bay-Waveland-Hancock County Civil Defense Council was on hand at Waveland's Monday night workshop to speak on Project Impact and to ask the Board of Aldermen to consider entering into an agreement with Bay St. Louis and the county to become nominated as a Project Impact Community. Only one community in each state may be nominated each year for the Federally funded program.

Our community would become next year's Project Impact Community.

Hancock County has already agreed to be part of the program. Bay St. Louis is expected to vote on the proposal at its regular meeting next week. Waveland Aldermen looked at the issue at Wednesday night's meeting. The project can bring up to $300,000 in funding to the community as a whole. Funding is done one a 75%/25% basis which means that the community will have to come up with about $60,000 split between the three entities.

The community may fulfill its commitment with in kind services which can include such things as labor or administration costs of projects, at a local level.

Recommendations for the nomination are made by MEMA, who prepares a package describing the community and its needs and submits it to FEMA for final approval once the community has agreed to participate. The program is designed to identify hazards, prioritize needs, and work on solutions to minimize the effects of disasters on the community. Being a part of the program also makes the chosen community eligible to receive various grants and funding automatically.

Once funding is in place the community would be required to hire a project coordinator to spearhead efforts, take initiative in projects, and secure resources.

"Someone who will get things done," said Carbon.

Public Works Director, Ray Eaton said that he feels we already know what our problems are and what needs to be done.

Guilty -- Kingston

David Sanders, whose body was found around the same time as Cowan's.

Also testifying for the prosecution were Cowan's friend and employer Kelvin Schultz, who had originally reported Cowan missing; and Gulfport attorney Stephen J. Maggio, who had been retained to represent Cowan in the couple's divorce just days before the shooting.

Defense attorney James Tucker attacked Gainey's credibility during the trial and said in opening statements Tuesday and again in closing arguments Wednesday that it was possible Gainey himself had killed Cowan, and only blamed Kingston in order to cut a deal for himself to get a three-year sentence, rather than the life sentence he could face if found guilty of murder.

Both Kingston and Gainey, now married to Kingston's daughter Tiffany, agreed on most of the major points of the prosecution's case. On the night of Aug. 21, 1998, Cowan was killed with a single bullet from a .38 pistol at Pattif's, Kingston's Sycamore St. antiques store; his body was then stuffed in a New Orleans Works cedar chest, where it was stored for two or three days, then wrapped in cellophane and covered with polyurethane to prevent further "leakage," as Gainey said; then the pair loaded the trunk in Kingston's truck, drove to Bayou LaCroix and dumped it in the water, where it was discovered in March 1999 by fishermen.

And both Gainey and Kingston said they continued to lie and cover up the murder in order to protect Tiffany, who at the time was enduring a very difficult pregnancy that required constant bed rest and for her to periodically be hooked by telephone to a prenatal monitor at the hospital.

Where the two differed were the events leading up to the shooting -- and who pulled the trigger.

Gainey said Kingston had roused him in the middle of the night to help her clean up after the murder, and convinced him to help by saying: "There's already one body on the floor. There doesn't have to be two."

Kingston, testifying in her own defense, said that she and her estranged husband had met up earlier in the evening at Casino Magic and that she had consumed 15-20 Absolut vodkas on the rocks. Then, she said, the pair returned to the Washington St. home where Cowan, Gainey and Tiffany lived, but Cowan was unable to get in because Gainey had blocked the door. They finally returned to the store, where she had been living, Kingston said, and "against her better judgement," she allowed Cowan to stay the night in the warehouse room. There, Gainey was laying in wait for him with the .38, and killed him "in a rage."

"I didn't realize Herman was going to drive (Gainey) that crazy," she said.

She said that Gainey might have shot her as well if she hadn't automatically grabbed her .22 pistol, with which she held him in a "Mexican stand-off."

When Schmidt asked Kingston if she was so interested in protecting her daughter, why then did she allow her to continue to live with a murderer, Kingston said "I couldn't do any more for my husband. All I could do was protect my daughter and unborn grandchild."

"We're very grateful for the jury and the law enforcement officials who collected the evidence and brought this case to a satisfactory close," Schmidt said last night after the verdict. "It was a very difficult case."

Whitfield set the sentencing phase of the trial for today at 9 a.m. A murder conviction in the state of Mississippi carries an automatic life sentence.

Tucker was unavailable for comment after the trial last night.

Unconscious man found in Clermont

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

An unidentified unconscious man was found by a passing motorist on Clermont Boulevard early Wednesday morning, reports Hancock County Sheriff Steve Garber.

Hancock Investigator Matt Karl said, "Our department received a call from a passing motorist at 7:38 a.m. Wednesday reporting a man was laying on the shoulder of the road near the alligator hole on Clermont Boulevard."

"The man was laying on his back. His face appeared to have been battered as there was blood on his face around his nose and mouth. He was dressed in a blue T-shirt, faded jeans and white tennis shoes and had no identification," Karl added. Karl said he guessed the age of the man to be 40-50, but because of his condition it was hard to be sure. He weighs approximately 150-160 pounds and has black hair.

The unconscious man was transported by American Medical Response to Gulfport Medical Center because of his head and face injuries, Karl said.

Karl said he is hoping the man will gain consciousness so they can find out who he is and the circumstances of his being placed on the side of the road. Meanwhile, anyone with information in the matter is asked to call the Sheriff's Office at 467-5101.

Honored

Marlin F. Torguson, left, was presented a plaque by Bay St. Louis mayor Eddie Favre during a special ceremony Saturday night honoring him as the founder of Casino Magic Corporation. Torguson served as president and chief executive of the organization which utilized the first barge-concept casino in the world. Under Torguson's guidance, Casino Magic expanded to Biloxi and Bossier City, LA., and also internationally with operations in Greece and Argentina. He will remain active in the gaming industry as a board member of Pinnacle Entertainment, the holding company for Casino Magic properties outside of Bay St. Louis. Torguson is also co-owner and vice-president of GMT Management Company.

Home-based businesses need 'the right stuff'

By Crystel Bailey

MSU Ag Communications

Mississippians are finding home-based businesses a successful trend if they include the right person, a marketable product or skill and helpful resources.

"Not just anyone can start a home-based business. There are three requirements a person must possess: an entrepreneurial spirit, family support and good business skills," said Beth Duncan, Extension small business specialist at Mississippi State University.

An entrepreneur must be able to organize and operate a business and also be willing to take a challenge. This type of person is creative, innovative, a generalist (able to see the big picture), flexible, a self-starter, a moderate risk-taker, and has high self-esteem, common sense, self-discipline and a leader-personality.

Duncan said for a home-based business to survive, family support is essential. She suggested discussing the business with the family to see if they are willing to support the business and integrate it into their lives.

"In addition to entrepreneurial spirit and family support, examine yourself to see if you have good business skills," Duncan said.

Good business skills should include management, marketing and communication. A person must be able to manage people, inventory and finances, and be able to market their product or service to reach target customers. A business person must know how to deal with employees, customers, vendors and suppliers.

An essential part of starting a home-based business is the development of a business plan, which includes choosing a marketable product or skill to sell.

"Turn something you enjoy doing, such as a hobby, into a business," she said.

Duncan suggested using talents, technology and things people would rather pay someone else to do, to make money as well. For instance, teach singing lessons, offer computer programming or start a cleaning service from home.

"Most businesses fail due to a lack of planning, so you must plan thoroughly before starting a business if you want it to succeed," Duncan said.

The newest trend in home-based businesses is virtual businesses, such as electronic retailing or e-tailing.

"Many people are creating Web sites and selling products through the Web. Even though some people have made a lot of money this way, it doesn't mean that everyone will. You have to have a business strategy for an e-business just like any other business," Duncan said.

For more information about starting a home-based business, contact the Food and Fiber Center at MSU Extension Service at (662) 325-2160.

SBA seeks nominations for 2001 small business awards

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) is seeking nominations for small business awards to be presented during the Small Business Week celebration in May 2001.

"SBA invites you to be a part of this celebration by nominating an outstanding small business owner or small business advocate in your community for one of several different awards.

Nominations for Small Business Person of the Year, Advocates of the Year, and Special Awards are being accepted until November 13.

Small Business Person of the Year recognizes business owners for developing an outstanding, growing business; innovative product(s); increasing jobs; increasing sales; overcoming adversity; and community contributions.

Small Business Advocate of the Year is given to individuals who have been advocates of minority-owned, women-owned and veteran-owned small businesses. In addition the awards go to media, accounting and financial services representatives who contribute to small business development.

In the special awards category are the Phoenix Award which recognizes public officials, business owners and volunteers whose efforts and contributions have helped their businesses or communities recover successfully from a natural disaster.

Additional special awards honor the SBA Young Entrepreneur of the Year, Small Business Exporter of the Year, and the SBA Entrepreneurial Success Award.

Each year since 1963, the President has designated national Small Business Week in recognition of the small business community's contributions to the American economy.

Small Business Person of the Year winners from every state, the District of Columbia, and the U.S. territories travel to Washington for three days of small-business-related activities and meetings with high-level government officials.

Nominations for all awards, except the Phoenix Award for Outstanding Contributions to Disaster Recovery, can be made by any individual or organization dedicated to the support of the small business community, including professional and trade associations, business organizations, chambers of commerce, banks, or employees of a small business. Self-nominations are also encouraged.

A free 'how to' pamphlet guides you through the nomination process. For your free pamphlet, nomination form, or other information, contact Gary Reed at (228) 863-4625 or visit the agency's web site at <http://smallbusinesssuccess.sba.gov>.

DUI -- the law

Ron Cuevas, chief administrator for Sheriff Steve Garber, whose job is to keep a handle on the Department's spending, discussed the measure Tuesday. Also present was Bobby Underwood, retired Mississippi Highway Patrol officer, who recently joined Garber's staff as chief of patrols.

Cuevas said, "There's no doubt about it. It's going to impact us logistically and financially. But, it's the law and we are bound to enforce it."

For second DUI offenders within a five-year period, the new law provides those who are convicted to serve a minimum of five days or up to one year in jail. For third DUI offenders within a five-year period, the law stipulates the convicted person must serve at least one year or up to five years in prison.

That could impact the county jail, already near its capacity, and add to food and medical costs associated with operating the jail, Cuevas said.

For 2nd and subsequent DUIs the law requires the county Sheriff or police departments to impound and immobilize any and all vehicles owned by the offender.

If someone's driver's license is later reinstated, the law requires an ignition interlock system must be installed on each vehicle owned by the offender. Testimony in a House committee discussing the stricter DUI laws, estimated the system would cost between $30 and $50 a month.

Underwood said, "This creates a whole new set of problems, and it's something the courts might have to interpret."

Underwood said what happens if as many as three vehicles are registered in the name of the person convicted. "His wife is using one car to go to work. His son drives another to school at St. Stanislaus. Are their vehicles going to be impounded or immobilized? I think it will have to be up to the judge's discretion," said Underwood.

He said the average storage fee for a car impounded in Hancock County runs about $10 a day, and at some point, the storage fees might exceed the value of the impounded vehicle.

"The other problem is the liability," said Cuevas. He said the Sheriff's Department would not be responsible if an impounded car is later inoperable once the owner reclaims it, but it is responsible if the vehicle gets damaged while it is stored.

And, where to store the impounded vehicles is also a problem, Cuevas said. "We use local towing agencies now, but we don't have a lot of space to store vehicles for any length of time," he said.

Underwood said there is a period of limbo between the time a person is arrested and convicted, and that time might be used to get around the impoundment laws.

Cuevas said, if there is a lien against the car, the title to it most probably could not be changed, but in some cases, banks or loaning institutions might allow a title change if a person's credit is good.

"What if a car sits idle and impounded for a year and you still owe a lot of money on it," asked Cuevas. "The banks may take a beating too."

The Echo turned to Ron Sennett, traffic records coordinator for the state Office of Highway Safety in Jackson to see how many repeat offenders were arrested in Hancock County last year.

Sennett said records showed of 48 persons arrested for DUI in Bay St. Louis last year, 15 were second offenders, and there were no third offenders.

In Waveland, there were 106 DUI arrests last year, and 29 of those were second offenders. There were no third offenders.

The sheriff's department made 145 DUI arrests last year, and 38 of those were 2nd offenders. There were no third offenders, Sennett said.

Sennett said statewide there were 31,769 DUI arrests last year, and 3,358 of those were drivers under 21, convicted under the state's zero alcohol tolerance law applying to juveniles. He said there were 927 alcohol-related deaths in the state last year, the second year in a row the state fell below the national average of 40 percent alcohol-related deaths.

Wal-Mart -- new site

Confirmation of the land transactions comes after months of area speculation about the location or relocation of the local Wal-Mart. There had been rumor and speculation that the new store would be built somewhere near the intersection of Highway 603 and Interstate 10.

Herb Dubuison, the real estate broker who handled the sale of Lady's property, said that would have been a "foolish" move. "There's no one there. They want to be near a population base and at this point, they would have been isolated" at the interstate tract.

Dubuison said in 20 years, if the population shift has occurred, "maybe they'd shut this one down and go out there. But right now, it'd be foolish."

Davis said the new facility would be incorporate some 180,000 square feet of space, compared with the 68,907 square foot store that's been operating on the site for some 12 years.

One the new store is up and running, it will have some 450 employees, compared with a staff of about 130 employees normally hired for the smaller Wal-Mart, Davis also said.

Davis said while many factors influenced where the new Supercenter would be located, the "convenience" factor for Waveland-area shoppers was a key.

Wal-Mart officials began an ambitious national expansion plan in February 1999 with plans to open 150 new Supercenters and some 40 additional regular discount stores. "This represents a substantial increase in the Supercenter expansion rate reflecting strong consumer acceptance and financial results from the format," store officials said.

The "Supercenter" facilities of Wal-Mart are much larger and diverse than the traditional Wal-Mart discount stores, and feature a full line of groceries and a general merchandise department store. The grocery sections usually feature bakeries, delicatessens, frozen foods, meats, dairy products and fresh produce.

In addition, they often include such specialty shops as a Vision Center, Fire and Lube Express and one-hour photo processing.

Part of the property Lady sold off for the development had been tagged by him for development of a new hotel. He said Tuesday, however, he dropped his plans for that development after area officials refused to enact a two-percent sales tax on prepared foods and beverages.

That refusal, said Lady, showed a lack of local enthusiasm for the tourism industry. Lady is chairman of the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau, and had fought hard to have the new tax endorsed.

He said he has acquired some four additional acres during the Wal-Mart land transaction, for development nearby, but he has no plans for a tourism-related project.

Scheme -- Stennis

worked as an engineer for Johnson Controls World Services, Inc., was also charged with theft of government property and making a false statement to an FBI agent about taking Stennis property.

Ervin, 36, who worked as a truck driver for a Stennis contractor, is accused of delivering stolen supplies to McKenzie's house. He posted a $10,000 bond Tuesday and was released.

McKenzie's, 32, was released

Tuesday after posting a $25,000 bond.

Johnson Controls, until last year, was in charge of daily operations at Stennis, and an 18-month investigation by the FBI and NASA officials originally led to the indictment of nine people once employed by Stennis contractors.

The government has accused Bill Mizell of Lumberton with orchestrating a kickback scheme in which he paid Johnson Controls employees money in exchange for having Johnson Controls purchase more than $2 million in products from companies he owned or was associated with.

Two of the nine originally indicted have already pleaded guilty to stealing from Stennis.

Both are expected to testify when Mizell and four other defendants go on trial Sept. 5.

A separate trial is expected to be held in October for McKenzie and Ervin.

CMR renews permit for Casino world project

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

For the second time in five years, the state Commission on Marine Resources has renewed the permit for Casino World.

The Commission voted 6-1 Tuesday to grant another extension for the project proposed off Interstate 10 at the south Diamondhead exit. Commissioner Vernon Asper was the lone dissenter.

The Commission took the action despite the fact last week a federal judge in Washington, D.C. ordered the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to pull the permits for Casino World, the Mandalay Bay Casino planned less than a mile down I-10 and another casino permitted in d'Iberville in Harrison County. The judge wants the Corps to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), which will study the cumulative effects of past and proposed casinos and other large-scale developments along the Mississippi Coast.

Florida-based Europa Cruises Corp., also announced last week it hopes to sell off the last of its four gambling ships operating in Florida waters in order to focus the firm's full attention and resources into developing the 404-acre casino site on the Bay of St. Louis.

Casino World was granted its first CMR permit almost five years ago.

Leetown signing residents for water

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

The Leetown Community has become the fourth in Hancock County attempting to provide its residents a water distribution system.

Bill Johnson, consultant with Compton Engineering, is working with the Leetown Water Association to file the necessary application for funding with the U.S. Agriculture Department's Rural Utilities Service. The Association is seeking $2.2 million, half of which would be an outright grant and half in the form of a low-interest, long-term loan.

Johnson said Association President John Lee, and other Leetown residents, are currently leading a drive to sign up a potential 700 customers. If 85 percent of residents sign up and pay an initial fee of $25, the grant and loans would likely be approved, Johnson said.

Compton has developed plans to erect an elevated 150,000-gallon water tank on two acres of land adjacent to the volunteer fire station on Rester Road. The water distribution system would provide, 4, 6, 8 and 10-inch water lines.

Installation of fire hydrants was dropped from plans because of costs, Johnson said, but the project will include filler lines for the fire department.

The service area would be from above Caesar Necaise Road through Leetown, down Mississippi Hwy. 43, south to Mitchell Road and from Rester Road to Whitfield Road.

Estimates are the monthly cost for providing water to customers would be $14, based on usage of 2,000 gallons.

Johnson stressed the Leetown Water Association was a non-profit organization, and would make no profit from the sale of water. He said a public water distribution system, however, would eliminate the need for property owners to drill expensive underground wells and should increase property values.

If the required 85 percent sign up, Johnson estimated construction of the system could begin about six months after receiving funding. The system would take about a year to install, he said.

The Kiln Water and Fire Protection District has received a USDA grant of $565,800 and a loan of $711,700 to provide approximately 390 residents with a water distribution system.

The service area would extend water to the Fenton community and too the east of the existing Kiln service area, the northwest area, generally along Cuevas Town Road, running east off of state Hwy. 43, to the northwest of the existing area, and the Catahoula Community generally located along Hwy. 43 to the northwest of Cuevas Town Road.

The system would also include a new water well and water pressure booster station to be constructed on District land.

Last June, the Standard-Dedaux Water Association filed an application with USDA for a grant and loan. It wants to extend water service to the northeast and central part of Hancock County and part of the upper Northwest corner of Harrison County.

Hancock's Water and Sewer District has also landed a USDA grant and loan for $2.1 million, and has recently awarded three separate contracts to extend water to approximately 500 residents of Shoreline Park located on the east side of state Hwy. 603. The project also will require construction of an elevated water tank and digging a water well 900 to 1,000-feet deep.

The first phase of construction should be completed by next March, according to engineers.

The district has also applied for more funding for Phase II of the water distribution system for Shoreline Park.

Herring -- Stennis employee, historian

NASA's newly constructed Mississippi Test Operations in Hancock County. With his arrival, Herring became the first NASA employee sent to Stennis on a permanent basis.

And, Herring covered NASA's every step along the way as Mississippi tested the Saturn V rocket engines that propelled missions like Apollo 11 that landed Michael Collins, Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin, and Neil Armstrong on the Moon.

Following the July 1969 flight of Apollo 11, Herring became Astronaut Protocol Officer at NASA Headquarters in Washington, D.C. For two years, he arranged and assisted the Apollo astronauts with public appearances and other related events. He served as press officer onboard ships assigned to the Astronaut Recovery Team, retrieving astronauts returning from space.

Herring returned to NASA's south Mississippi test facility in 1971. For the next 19 years, his contributions to Stennis Space Center were immeasurable. He established the center's first internal newsletter, Lagniappe, as well as the first aerospace education program, the visitor center - known today as StennisSphere - and the Educators Resource Center that provides free educational materials and resources to classroom teachers and educators throughout the Southeast.

Herring retired from NASA in 1990 and became Stennis Space Center's historian. He published Way Station to Space, A History of the John C. Stennis Space Center in 1997 and was currently gathering information for the next chapters of Stennis' history.

"This is a tremendous loss both personally and professionally for our Stennis family," said NASA's Public Affairs Chief Myron Webb. "Mack's name was synonymous with Stennis Space Center. His enthusiasm, wisdom and beloved accounts of the old days will be deeply missed, not only by fellow employees, but also by his widespread community friends."

Camille - 31 years ago today

This article is a reprint from "Camille", a publication compiled by the Staff of the Sea Coast Echo, originally printed in October, 1969.

On August 14, 1969, a rapidly formed tropical storm located in the Caribbean near Grand Cayman Island was noted. She was somewhat benign moving along at about 10 miles an hour and didn't reach hurricane intensity until the morning of August 15 when during that night she passed over the western tip of Cuba and into the Gulf of Mexico. Rocking along on a northnorthwestern track at about the same forward speed she then named Hurricane Camille on the afternoon of August 16 stalled for several hours and intensified. During that night she moved forward still on north-northwest course and her winds in the center were estimated at 150 m. p. h.

On Sunday, August 17, an air force plane forced its way into the eye of the storm and found the central barometric pressure to be 26.61 inches. That represents the lowest barometric reading ever recorded on the western hemisphere by an aircraft.

Now the eye of the storm crossed the Mississippi Gulf Coast near Waveland Mississippi at about 10:00 p.m. CDT Sunday evening August 17 and her winds had increased to about 200 m.p.h. She was howling! Dr Robert H. Simpson Chief of the National Hurricane Center in Miami said, "Basis of my experience and observation, I would conservatively estimate the winds ranged at or about 200 miles an hour. This is on the threshold of tornado intensity."

High tides resulted. Tide gauges and records were destroyed. It was necessary to get tide stages from high water marks. Static high tides, were taken at Mean Sea Level in Mobile, Alabama with 7.4 feet; Pascagoula 10 to 11 feet; Biloxi 15.5 to 20 feet; Gulfport 20 feet; Pass Christian 21.4 feet and Bay St. Louis 20 feet. The Army Engineers said waves on top of these static high tides were considerably higher and there has been sufficient evidence to verify the statement.

Many residents of the area found their homes mangled among all types of debris after the tidal wave of Camille touched the majority of Hancock County's land mass south of I-10.

President of the United States Richard Nixon under Public Law 875, declared on August 18 the state of Mississippi a major disaster area and authorized 26 counties of the 82 to be eligible for Federal assistance under the President's Office of Emergency Preparedness. George Hastings of the President's office of E. P. was assigned to marshal the federal assistance and recovery effort in the stricken Gulf Coast region.

With unexcelled skill and knowhow the recovery program was organized, launched and under way. The U. S. Corps of Army Engineers moved in. Bay St. Louis was under Martial law. There was a strict curfew. Red Cross, Salvation Army and other humanitarian units moved in. There was a bee hive of activity in restoring communication, clearing debris, bringing in pure water, feeding the thousands, making homes for the homeless, giving inoculations treating the injured. Identifying and burying the dead. Fighting the fires. Evacuating the young and the old and the sick. And with rapid fire, decisions setting up opera-

Admittedly the Gulfcoast -- "gold coast" of only hours before had become a desolate center of destruction never before known to the area. Ocean going vessels went aground, people died, businesses were damaged or destroyed. Communications were all but cut-off. Processing plant damages were estimated at $8,000,000 loss. Off-shore drilling took a licking, 4,000 workers were without jobs in the industry alone, agriculture losses and dairy farmer losses were massive. Orchards of timber, pecan and tung suffered. Tourist industry was with an estimated $31,638,612 loss. Children were evacuated. 139 persons were known dead. Many unidentified or unaccounted for. 66,000 families suffered loss of property as reported to the Red Cross. 4,000,000 pounds of USDA foods were supplied. 14,000 families registered for assistance with the Red Cross. An estimated 110,000 insurance claims are anticipated! Loss of personal and corporate tax to the general fund for the balance of 1969 estimated at $3,450,000. Not to mention sales tax losses, alcoholic beverage taxes, etc.

From Gulfport headquarters, George Hastings spread his recovery team to satellite office in hard hit Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, and Biloxi. All federal assistance force came at the request of Mississippi's Governor John Bell Williams. On-the-scene teams plan to be in the area for at least a year to supervise federal efforts, administer expenditure of millions of recovery-fund dollars, restore and repair facilities (Public Law 81-875) and marshal efforts of more than 15 federal agencies in 33 government programs.

Three weeks following Camille Bay St. Louis was well-off by comparison. Most of the streets were clear. Over 50 percent of the phone service was installed. For the most part private well drinking water had been tested and approved. Business places -- some of them -- were in operation and prices were surprisingly below normal. For instance Jitney Jungle sold bread for 10 cents a loaf and chicken at 29 a pound. Other stores and Restaurants made similar attempts to help customers.

Profiteering was rare and scorned. Damaged goods were sold to salvage houses. The people bought first-class merchandise and knew it. Dealers were honest about used cars -- T.V.'s and other salvaged merchandise. School plans went forward. There were endless meetings - planning re-construction, planning a better town, planning a model community -- planning a way to assist each other and thereby assist themselves. An attitude of courage, fortitude, and determination was order of the day. Day - afterday a united community with shoulder-to-shoulder pushed forward through muck and stench and sweat to rebuild a town with a slogan that nobody knows who originated: Let's Build Bay St. Louis -- and Build it Better. American flags were never so cherished. Lives never held in more reverence.

In the swim of things . . .

Ann Porter - still swimming at 72

I Cor. 10:31b "Whatsoever you do, do it all to the glory of God"

It all started in 1960 when Kenneth Pepperdene, who then directed the Hancock County American Red Cross, asked Ann Porter to attend the National Red Cross Aquatic School at Paul B. Johnston State Park in Hattiesburg to obtain a water safety instruction certification, better known as WSI.

She did, and the following year returned to take a course in competitive swimming. Having done this, she prevailed upon the city of Bay St. Louis to build a "T" shaped dock to teach swimming lessons to the children of Bay St. Louis.

The children were registered into the program in April of 1962. The program rapidly grew and was operated entirely by volunteers in assembly-line fashion.

The beginners skills were broken up into 10 stations having three or four skills taught at each station. The classes were from 9-12 for a two-week period, and by 1963 there were some 350 to 400 children registered into the program.

In 1964 Ed and Ann Porter built a pool at their home on 109 St. Charles St. and opened South Bay Swim Club, sold family memberships and started the Bay St. Louis Swim Team.

Joined by her good friend Virginia Wagner, the two coached some 35 swimmers. They traveled and competed against swim teams in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Winning their Regional Meet in 1966 by beating a Picayune swim team, several of their swimmers qualified for the Mississippi-Louisiana All-star Meet in Alexandria, La. that year.

Moving to Mobile in 1975 Ann taught swimming at Chandler Branch YMCA and was a part of the aquatic staff there. While teaching there she was asked to join the Masters Swim Team. This is a national program that includes swimmers 25 years of age and older. Ann was 54 when she began swimming competitively.

What an opportunity this was for her to go as an ambassador for Jesus Christ and share her faith with other swimmers. She attended meets in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Utah.

Bringing home medals and ribbons from each meet, she gives God the glory for all He has done through her.

Some of her accomplishments are:

1984 - Swimming in the 50-54 age group: first place in Pensacola Bay open water swim, 3.5 miles

1985 - Pensacola Bay Swim, second place, 3.5 miles

1986 - National Masters Short Course Meet, Ft. Pierce, Fla., six ribbons (forth-eighth place)

1987 - National Long Course Meet-Woodland, Texas: third place medal on 200 freestyle, five ribbons fourth to eighth place

1988 - Swam Bay of St. Louis in 1 hour 50 min. two miles, win in honor of her 60th birthday

1988 - New Orleans Worlds Fair Long Course Meet: five medals

1993 - (60-65 age group) World Senior Games in St. George, Utah: three third place medals; 14 foreign countries represented there January 11, 1994 - Heart attack and four-bypass surgery. In hospital one week - no permanent damage to heart.

October of 1994 - (60-65 age group) Hight Point Trophy (10 months following heart surgery)

May of 1995 - National Senior Olympics Long Course in San Antonio, Texas. Did not medal, but qualified and got to swim.

The National Senior Olympics are held every two years - the alternate year is a qualifying year, which in 1997 was in Phoenix, Arizona; 1999 in Orlando, Fla., a bit too far and expensive to travel.

The 2000 Alabama Senior Olympics - Montgomery, Ala. May 6th - qualifying meet for Nationals in Baton Rouge, La. (May 2001) She qualified winning four gold and a silver in the 70-75 age group.

Basically she is a long-distance swimmer, swimming freestyle and backstroke. Her best events are the 200 free and 500 free.

Stingrays fight back to beat Renegades 18-15

BY Dwayne Bremer

The Gulf Coast Stingrays showed some character Saturday night, as they came back late in the fourth quarter to pull out an 18-15 victory against the Central Alabama Renegades.

"This was the toughest team we have played so far this year, and our guys really stepped up on the last two drives," said offensive coach Amos Flower.

The Stingrays stumbled to start the game. After not picking up a first down, a punt by Charlie Mitchell was blocked by Renegade Lance Chatman. The ball was scooped up by Chris Reid at the 38 and brought back to the 31.

The Renegades picked up a first down as James Richardson connected with Ronald Meikerson for 11 yards to the 20. The StingRay defense then woke up, as Jacco Cooper sacked Richardson for a nine yard loss. Two incomplete passes, and a short gain on fourth down gave the Stingrays the ball back at the 25.

The StingRay offense then went to work as Brian Laneaux picked up 8 yards, and then picked five more, and a first down. The Stingrays were forced to punt. Mitchell's punt pinned the Renegades down at the nine yard line.

The StingRay defense then made a big play. Rodney Conway broke through the line and forced Chris Harmon to fumble the football. Cooper pounced on the ball at the 10, and the Stingrays had a golden chance to score. The Stingrays took advantage of the fumble as Scott Pepperman booted a 27-yard field goal. With 4:18 to play in the first quarter the Stingrays had a 3-0 lead.

The Renegades would strike back early in the second quarter. Taking over at their own 44, it took Richardson three plays to hook up with a wide open Bennett for a 30-yard touchdown. Earl FitzPatrick added the point after, and with 10:41 to go in the half the Renegades took a 7-3 lead. The Renegades attempted an on-sides kick, but the Stingrays covered the ball at the 45.

The StingRay drive stalled, and Pepperman was unable to connect on a 33 yard field goal. The Renegades took over with 3:24 to go in the half.

The Renegades missed a field goal of their own just before the half, and the teams took the break with the score still 7-3.

The StingRay defense gave the offense another golden opportunity with 6:46 to go in the third. A fumble by Richardson was covered up by Joseph Knowling at the 34.

The Stingrays would not get any closer, and with 2:59 left in the third the Stingrays were faced with a fourth and seven from the 9 yard line. The Stingrays elected not to kick a sure field goal, and go for the touchdown. The Stingrays appeared confused as the play was called, and a running play by Laneaux was stopped for a three yard loss. The Renegades took over at the 12.

The StingRay defense would allow two first downs, but they would force the Renegades to punt the ball back for the offense with 12:30 to play.

The Stingrays took over at the 36. After four first downs, Mitchell floated a pass across the middle that was intercepted, and brought back to the 30.

The Renegades took over with 9:25 to play. The StingRay defense remained tough, as Cooper and Conway had two tackles for losses. The Renegades were faced with a third and 13, and pressure by Steven Maxwell forced an incompletion. The Renegades were forced to punt. The Stingrays would take over at their own 35 with 7:46 to play.

With the game in the balance the StingRay offense stepped up, and went on a nine play march to the endzone. Laneaux had a short pickup, and Mitchell hit Larrone Lewis for five yards. On third down, Mitchell found Owen for 13 yards and a first down. Mitchell then connected with McGill for 16 more yards, and another first down. After a short run by Bobby Franklin, Mitchell hit Damon McDaniel for four yards. The Stingrays were faced with another third down, and Mitchell found McGill again for 18 yards, and a first down to the 15. Mitchell then dropped back and threw a pass to the left corner of the endzone. McGill dove for the ball, and caught it for a StingRay touchdown. The Renegades were off sides on the extra point attempt, so the Stingrays took a chance on a two point conversion. Laneaux took the hand off, and dove in for the score. With only 3:10 to play in the game the Stingrays took an 11-7 lead.

The Stingrays then took advantage of a Renegade mistake. Pepperman's kickoff bounced five yards deep into the endzone. No Renegade touched the ball, and by rule the ball was still live. Knowling fell on the ball in the endzone, and was awarded a touchdown. Pepperman added the point after, and the Stingrays had an 18-7 lead.

Darrell Robbins took the ensuing kickoff back 85 yards for a Renegade touchdown. The Renegades added the two point conversion, and suddenly it was a game again 18-15 with 2:55 left to play. The Renegades elected to kick the ball deep, and Stingrays would take over at the 35.

Franklin ran for four yards, and the Stingrays took the clock down to the two minute warning. With the Renegades out of time outs, all the Stingrays needed was a first down. A short gain set up a crucial third and two. Laneaux took the handoff and fought for four yards, and a first down. The Stingrays would then run out the final minute, and enjoy their third straight victory.

"I was pleased with our effort on defense, and with our offense coming through in the clutch," said head coach Matt Karl.

The Stingrays are now 3-0 on the season. They will travel to Hammond next week to play the 1-2 Hammond Stars.

The Stingrays will return home on August 26th for a showdown with the powerful Louisiana Hurricanes.

Bassfield's Thompson to suit up in Mariner's No. 18 in 2000 Pearl River football season

Pearl River Community College sophomore Larry Thompson of Bassfield has been selected by the Wildcat coaching staff to wear a special jersey during the 2000 football season.

Former Wildcat Juan Mariner's number 18 will be worn by the Wildcat cornerback-linebacker in honor of the tight end, who was killed in an automobile accident Sept. 13, 1997.

Mariner, the son of Charles and Joyce Mariner of Oakvale (located between Columbia and Prentiss), was signed to the Wildcat squad as a linebacker and tight end after his graduation from Prentiss High School in the spring of 1996. He earned a letter his freshman season at The River and was the team's starting tight end his short-lived sophomore season.

PRCC head coach Keith Daniels, who is entering his sixth year with the Wildcats, said the honor, which was initiated prior to the 1998 season, is a tribute to Mariner.

"Juan was a special person and was well liked by his teammates and the coaching staff. This is an appropriate way to show what he meant to his team and school while he was here," Daniels said. "Juan appreciated life and the opportunity to play here. He got along with everybody. You immediately respected him."

"Larry is also that kind of person," he continued. "He always takes care of business in the classroom and on the football field. His attributes coincide with what Juan was all about. Both are winners."

Daniels said Thompson's selection was based on the his "excellent attitude, hard work habits, and commitment to the Wildcat team."

Thompson is a 1998 graduate of Bassfield High School and is the son of Larry and Jean Thompson of Bassfield.

Beef takes fire out of Dogs in second half

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The last two weeks have not been kind to the Mississippi Fire Dogs after they secured a spot for the IPFL playoffs this weekend. On August 5, the Fire Dogs led the Shreveport Bombers until the last two minutes of the game when the Bombers scored to take the lead. Then, with :10 left to play, Mississippi quarterback/head coach John Fourcade was intercepted in the endzone to preserve the win for the Bombers.

Just about the same scenario occurred in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum on August 12. The Fire Dogs led the Omaha Beef until the 3:50 mark of the fourth quarter.

The Beef scored and connected on the PAT to go ahead 39-38. On the ensuing kickoff, the Fire Dog go-to guy, Kenny Causey, fumbled the ball and a Fire Dog player recovered the ball in the endzone which was ruled a safety putting the Beef up 41-38.

The Beef received the ball and pushed the pigskin into field goal territory where they connected on a 40-yard attempt to make the score 44-38. After returning the kickoff to their own 11 yardline, the Fire Dogs pushed the ball to the Beef 22 yardline.

On the next play, Fourcade as intercepted by Derrick Lovell at his own eight yardline to preserve the victory for the Beef and send the Fire Dogs on the road to Omaha in search of the IPFL title during the first round of the playoffs.

Fire Dogs wide receiver Kenny Causey stated, "We came out in the first half with a lot of fire. We just lost that fire in the second half. We have to condition ourselves to keep the intensity in the second half. I'm disappointed in my play during the game. I feel as though I have let the team down. I feel that this team still has what it takes to get the job done in winning a championship; however, we have made the task a little harder for ourselves these last two weeks."

Both teams missed field goals on their opening drives of the game. The Beef narrowly missed a 48-yard field goal on their second drive of the game only to turn the ball over to the Fire Dogs.

On the first play of their second possession, John Fourcade found Causey for a 10-yard gain and a first down. With that pass, Fourcade went over 3,000 yards passing for the season. Fourcade found his favorite target, Causey, two more times on the drive. The second one being a two-yard scoring pass with 2:45 remaining in the first quarter. Tim Hardaway connected on the PAT and made the score 7-0.

The Fire Dog defense stuffed the Beef on their next drive led by A.J. Styre's quarterback sack to force Omaha to turn the ball over on downs.

Fourcade threw seven consecutive times on the next possession with the last pass being caught by Lamont Woodberry for a four-yard score with 12:06 left in the first half. The PAT by Hardaway was good pushing the score to 14-0.

The Beef finally got on the board with a 20-yard scoring pass on the fifth play of their next drive with 9:41 left in the first half. The PAT was good making the score 14-7.

Fourcade wasted no time putting the Fire Dogs back up by two scores. On the third play of the drive, Fourcade connected with Causey for his third scoring pass of the game. This time the pass was for 17 yards and came with 8:06 left in the first half. The PAT by Hardaway was good pushing the score to 21-7.

The Beef missed a 46-yard field goal on their next possession. But, the Beef got a boost when they sacked Fourcade in the endzone three plays into Mississippi's next possession. The safety made the score 21-9 with 4:32 left in the second quarter. The Beef took advantage of getting the ball back after the safety. Omaha made their way down the field thanks to two Mississippi penalties. The Beef got close enough to connect on a 27-yard field goal with :54 left in the first half to make the score 21-11.

However, that didn't stop the Fire Dogs from answering the Beef before intermission. Fourcade took just two plays and hit Causey for his third score of the night. This one was for 20 yards with just :23 left in the first half. The PAT by Hardaway was good making the score 28-11.

But, the Beef had a show of their own to perform before halftime. Omaha got close enough with the ensuing kickoff return to attempt a 33-yard field goal. With :03 left in the half, the kick was good making the score 28-14 at the break.

If the Fire Dogs were full of intensity in the first half, one could say that they left it all in the locker room during the second half. Omaha stormed back with impressive plays while Mississippi could only score 10 points.

On Mississippi's first possession of the second half, a 58-yard field goal attempt by Hardaway was blocked and recovered in the endzone by the Beef for a touchdown with 12:55 left in the third quarter. The PAT was good bringing the score to 28-21.

On Mississippi's next possession, Fourcade was intercepted inside the Beef 10 yardline in the midst of an eight play drive. Omaha couldn't put the ball in the endzone but settled for a 42-yard field goal with 4:22 left in the third quarter that made the score 28-24.

Fourcade looked like the Johnny Football of old on the next possession for the Fire Dogs. Fourcade commanded the Fire Dogs down the field on a 10-play drive that ended with a Fourcade plunge from three yards out with 14:02 left to play in the game. The PAT by Hardaway was good making the score 35-24.

But, the Beef were not intimidated at all. They settled in for a drive of their own that ended with a nine-yard scoring pass with 10:03 left in the fourth quarter. The two-point conversion attempt was good making the score 35-32.

Mississippi stalled out on the next drive but relied on Hardaway to put some distance between the two teams. Hardaway nailed a 38-yarder with 6:16 left in the game to make the score 38-32.

The tide of the game switched and Omaha scored 12 points in less than four minutes to send the Fire Dogs down with a loss.

The win gave the Beef the home field advantage during the first round of the playoffs and upped their record to 9-7. The loss dropped the Fire Dogs to a travel team for the playoffs and their record to 9-7.

The Fire Dogs will travel this weekend to Omaha to play the Beef in a first round matchup in the IPFL playoffs.

Fire Dogs travel to Omaha for playoff

The Mississippi Fire Dogs announced the team will be traveling to Omaha for the first round of the playoffs.

They will leave for Omaha early Friday morning from Mobile, practice in the afternoon when they arrive, and the team will then break for dinner before a film session in the evening.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. at the Omaha Civic Auditorium Saturday, Aug. 19.

The winner of this game will travel to Portland for the IPFL Championship game.

For information, call the Mississippi Fire Dogs office at 228-388-1876.

NGA Golf Tour coming to The Bridges in BSL

The National Golf Association Tour is coming to The Bridges in Bay St. Louis for the Casino Magic Classic August 14-20, benefiting the Children's Wish Foundation Intl.

The NGA Tour is the third largest 72-hole professional golf tour in the country, behind the PGA and the Buy.com tours, and boasts alumni like U.S. Open winner Lee Janzen, the British Open and PGA Champion John Daly, as well as Tom Lehman, Jim Furyk and Stewart Cink, to name just a few.

The NGA Tour has helped more than 100 professionals acquire their PGA, Senior PGA, and Buy.com Tour cards. In fact, 35 percent of the players who earned their 2000 PGA Tour card started their careers on the NGA Tour.

Tournament week begins at The Bridges with the Monday Qualifier on August 14, the Pro-Am on Wednesday, August 16, round one of the tournament kicking off Thursday, August 17, with a Junior Clinic starting at 2 pm on Saturday, August 19. There is no admission charge for spectators for any rounds of play.

The total purse for the Casino Magic Classic at The Bridges will be $105,000 with $20,000 going to the winner. Without a doubt, so far the biggest story on tour this year has been the total domination of Chad Campbell. The Andrews, Texas native has been nearly unbeatable.

Through 16 events, Campbell has won an amazing eight times while racking up almost $180,000 in prize money. In fact, Campbell has earned more than $840,000 in less than four years on the NGA Tour.

For information about the NGA Tour, visit the web site, www.INGATOUR.com.

Those who have any questions concerning sponsorship opportunities or interview requests during tournament week, contact Regional Tournament Director Julie Clements at 404-307-4208.

The sixth in the Museum's Work in Progress series, Work in Progress: Ed McGowin opens Sept. 8 and continues through Oct. 8. Also opening on Sept. 8 is Quilts Across America. Produced by the American Craft Museum's largest education outreach program, this triptych quilt is the combined efforts of fifth-grade students from more than 250 schools across the United States. The exhibition also remains on view through October 8.

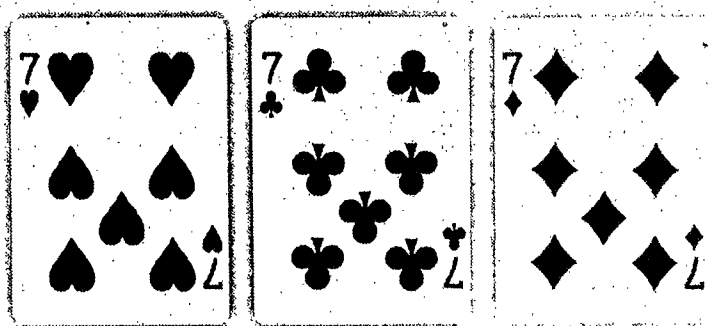

Museum hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, noon to 5 p.m.; hours extended on Tuesdays until 8 p.m.

Admission rates are adults $5; seniors 60+ $4; ages 18-college $3; ages 6-17 $2; ages 5 and under free; MMA Members free; all school groups free with advance reservations. For information, contact the Museum at 601-960-1515.

The Mississippi Museum of Art is located at the corner of Pascagoula and Lamar streets in downtown Jackson and is open daily except for major holidays.

St. Ann-St. John Church News

Commit to the Lord whatever you do, and your plans will succeed.

Proverbs 16:3

In his heart a man plans his course, but the Lord determines his steps.

Proverbs 16:9

Give your troubles to God; He will be up all night anyway. Not the cry, but the flight of the wild duck leads the flock to fly and follow.

Chinese Proverb

It is hard to be angry in the presence of imperturbable good nature.

It is well-nigh impossible to be morose in the face of a cheerful and generous helpfulness.

Henry Van Dyke

A man's love is the measure of his fitness for good or bad company here or elsewhere. Men are tattooed with their special beliefs; but a real human heart with divine love in it beats with the same glow under all patterns of all earth's thousands of tribes.

May the glory of the Lord endure forever; may the Lord rejoice in His works - He who looks at the earth and it trembles, who touches the mountains and they smoke.

Psalms 104:31-32

And so (if I might be judge), God never did make a more calm, quiet, innocent recreation than angling.

Isaiah Walton

There will be OCD registration Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 19-20 and Aug. 26-27 after masses at St. Ann and St. John churches.

The Sacrament of Reconciliation is available before all masses and anytime by appointment.

Military Mention

PVT BURKART

Army National Guard Pvt. Melissa J. Burkart was graduated from basic combat training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C.

During the training, the soldier received instruction and practice in drill and ceremony, marching, rifle marksmanship, armed and unarmed combat, map reading, field tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Burkart is the daughter of Leonard Burkart of Joliet, Ill., and Debbie Mariano of Bay St. Louis.

The private is a 1994 graduate of Plainfield High School, Ill.

MSU Alumni meeting

Mississippi State University alumni and friends are invited to join the MSU Alumni Association Hancock County and Pearl River County Chapters for a dinner and alumni meeting on Friday, August 18 at Don's Restaurant (located next to the Brett Favre sign) in Kiln.

The dinner will begin at 6 p.m. and will include special Mississippi State guest Tricia Hemphill, coordinator of chapter programs. Cost of the dinner will be $10.

RSVP to Melinda Miller, Hancock County alumni president, 228-467-2697.

"Please make every effort to attend and support your local alumni chapter and Mississippi State University," said Miller.

Personals

If we meet and you forget me, you have lost nothing; but if you meet JESUS CHRIST and forget Him you have lost everything.

I AM LOOKING FOR JOSEPH HAJDO. Please call after 4p.m., 467-8063.

ST. JUDE'S NOVENA. MAY THE SACRED heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, Helper of the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day. By the 8th day your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. Thank you St. Jude for granting my petition. R.J.M.

Southern Miss tops $40 million in research funding for 2000-2001

By Phil Hearn
University of Southern Mississippi faculty collected a record $40 million-plus in research funding last fiscal year — topping the previous year by a third and nearly doubling externally generated dollars over a two-year period.

In the process, the university linked itself more strongly to programs supporting minority doctoral students through the Alliance for Graduate Education in Mississippi (AGEM) and the Ronald E. McNair Postbaccalaureate Scholars Program.

"We've had a good increase in basic support across the university in all of our colleges," said Dr. Donald Cotten, USM vice president for research, who reported total funded contract and grant activity for fiscal year 2000 reached $40,130,656.

That represented a 33 percent increase over the university's previous record of $30,156,477 collected during fiscal 1999 and nearly doubled the $20,612,472 recorded by Southern Miss during fiscal 1998.

Of 594 funding proposals submitted by USM faculty last year, 377 were approved.

"We have quality faculty and students, and that's the bottom line," said Cotten. "Our faculty are designing and developing projects to compete at the national level."

Southern Miss became involved last year in a National Science Foundation-funded project designed to increase the number of minority doctoral graduates in the science, mathematics and engineering disciplines — partnering with the University of Mississippi, Mississippi State University and Jackson State University to create AGEM.

"AGEM is the vehicle that will carry out the project mission of infrastructural changes at our institutions to make them more supportive of minority doctoral students in those areas," said Dr. Anselm Griffin, dean of the USM Graduate School.

He said graduate deans at each of the partner schools will serve as co-principal investigators for the statewide, five-year program that is funded at $500,000 annually — including $110,000 annually for Southern Miss.

Also last year, with the support of a $760,000, four-year grant from the U.S. Department of Education, Southern Miss's Division of Student Affairs developed and implemented the McNair scholars program — which provides $190,000 a year to prepare promising low-income, first-generation college graduates for advanced study leading to doctorates and faculty positions. Student Affairs collected $2,884,551 in outside funding during the year.

Southern Miss's College of Science and Technology led the way in external funding collections with $10,360,233 — closely followed by the Institute of Marine Sciences' record $10,313,225.

Dr. Jay Grimes noted that IMS received a $2.2 million grant from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration to begin expanding its Gulf Coast Research Laboratory to the 213-acre Cedar Point site in Jackson County; and got $300,000 in start-up money from the U.S. Navy to initiate the nation's only master's degree program in hydrographic science. The first class graduated Aug. 4.

"Our scientists, staff and students have continued their exemplary work in such areas as stock enhancement, shrimp farming, fisheries assessment and analysis of chemicals in the environment," said Grimes, dean of IMS, which is based at Ocean Springs.

Corporate giant Lockheed Martin asked scientists at USM's Thames Polymer Science Research Center, a unit of the College of Science and Technology, to help develop a material to repair Stealth aircraft — and provided $50,000 for a one-year project.

Also, polymer science professors Charles L. McCormick and Roger D. Hester were awarded a three-year, $1.056 million grant from the U.S. Department of Energy to develop a new polymer they hope will squeeze more oil out of the earth and result in fewer gas crises for future generations of Americans.

The College of Health and Human Sciences received grants totaling $3,168,171 during the year — including $2 million in federal funding for USM's Center for Sustainable Health Outreach, a resource and training program for community health workers; and $638,522 in tobacco settlement money for USM's

North Bay Elementary Open House

North Bay Elementary will host the beginning of the year open house Sunday, Aug. 20, 4-5:30 p.m.

All parents and students of North Bay are invited to attend.

If you have not received notification of a teacher assignment, report to the school cafeteria at open house for that information.

School supplies may be brought to the classroom during open house.

Center for Tobacco Prevention, an anti-smoking program aimed at young people.

USM's College of Education and Psychology topped more than $2.8 million in external funding during the year, including a grant of nearly $1 million from the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Special Education Programs for the Center for Literacy and Assessment. Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., helped secure the grant.

Also, a new $1.1 million, three-year grant from the U.S. Department of Education will allow USM to better infuse technology into its teacher-preparation programs. The program, Preparing Mississippi's Future Teachers to Use Technology, is nicknamed PT3.

"The PT3 grant is a clear example of the collaborative efforts at USM among all the colleges that are participants in the teacher preparation process," said Dr. Carl Martray, dean of the college.
